WEIL CASE IS TAKEN FROM JURY

Judge Dodge Acts in Mail Fraud Case After Learning of Attempt to Influence Juror's Vote

Judge Dodge in the United States District Court today dismissed the jury in the case of Victor M. Weil, charged with misuse of the mail in an attempt to defraud, saying that one of the jurors had been approached by an unknown person who attempted to influence his vote.

Judge Dodge said:

"Acting in compliance with his instructions given at the beginning of the trial, one of the jurors reported to me yesterday that he had been approached by a person who attempted to engage him in conversation and to possibly influence his vote.

"I have further investigated the matter and nothing appears to indicate that the juror was approached on authority from either the counsel for the defence or for the government.

Jury Is Dismissed.

"Although I feel that possibly you have had sufficient evidence offered to enable you to decide a verdict at present, the general conditions surrounding the case would probably lead to the belief that the verdict had been influenced, and I therefore feel that it is better to discharge this jury."

Judge Dodge then discharged the jury and thanked them for their services and the manner in which they had acted in the entire matter.

The jury was not called in today and arguments were made in the lobby before Judge Dodge regarding the probability of a mis-trial of the case as a result of yesterday's developments. The case is enveloped in mystery. Deputy United States Marshal Ruhl, who entered the lobby with another man, remained in conference with Judge Dodge and the lawyers for a little while.

Conferred With Judge.

The case opened yesterday with the court room crowded with spectators and the jury in its place. Suddenly Juror Kelly arose, went over and whispered to Judge Dodge, who ordered the jury to retire.

Conferences were held for several hours between United States District Attorney French and his assistants, Garland and Sullivan, who are prosecuting the case against Weil. The attorneys for the defence, Ham and Fenney, took part in the conference. Judge Dodge remained in his lobby for a greater part of the day and Juror Kelly talked with the officials.

Guy A. Ham, one of the attorneys for the defendant, said: "My client reported to me that he had been approached by certain persons who attempted to solicit money from him on the pretence of influencing the vote of one or more of the jurors in this case. These persons were unknown to my client.

"Monday morning I laid the matter before the United States District Attorney's office, but they did not feel inclined to act upon the matter at that time. Yesterday one of the jurors notified the court that he had been approached improperly and then the counsel for the defence joined with the counsel for the government in asking that the case be taken from this jury."

TO BUILD NEW BLOCK ON BOYLSTON STREET

Deeds have gone to record whereby title to the two adjoining properties, Nos. 1106-1108 Boylston street, has been transferred from George Binney, trustee, to the Walker-Gordon Laboratory Company at No. 793 Boylston street. The estates are assessed together for $36,400, of which amount $10,000 is on the 3½-story brick dwellings and $26,400 is on the 4,410 square feet of land. It is the intention of the purchaser to raze the present building and erect a three-story brick and stone building.

Writes to Mayor Wishing to Trade Wife for House Lot

One Frank Wagonerose Wishes to Know if They Really Are Going to Cut Up Boston Common.

Anybody who has a desirable house lot he would trade for a wife may be interested in the following letter received by Mayor Fitzgerald today:

Dear Sir—Someone told me that Boston Common was going to be cut up into house lots. Will you please let me know the price—also will you take my old woman in exchange. She is very gentle the first of the week. My brother will take one, too, if the price is not too high.

(Signed) FRANK WAGONEROSE.

Since Boston Common is not going to be cut into house lots and the city is not in the real estate business, Colonel Dick Field refers the latter to any who may be interested. Colonel Field further suggests that an ad in the AMERICAN'S barter and exchange column might produce the desired results. The address of Wagonerose may be procured by applying to Colonel Field.

Everett Explains He's Blameless in Powers Block Fire

Gives Himself a Clean Bill in Report of Investigation Demanded by Mayor.

Building Commissioner Everett gives himself and his department a clean bill of health in regard to the responsibility for the narrow escape of thirty girls from the fire in the Powers Block, No. 94 Blackstone street, on Tuesday night.

Mayor Fitzgerald, like many others, felt that the fact that thirty girls had to be rescued from perilous positions by the firemen called for some explanation as to the adequacy of the fire escapes. He asked Mr. Everett to explain.

The investigation and report made to the commissioner state that the building was inspected on January 18, and that certain changes were recommended which were made.

"There were simply means of egress," says Commissioner Everett.

Confessed "Slayer" Now Denies Story

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 4.—Seth Nichols, former member of the crew of the U. S. S. Dixie, today confessed that he lied to the authorities when he said that he murdered Dr. Helene Knabe of Indianapolis. He now claims that the suicide of his wife and liquor are responsible for the condition of his mind that made him tell the fake story.

The statement from the captain of the U. S. S. Dixie that Nichols was aboard the Dixie at the time of the murder brought back his memory.

After being confronted by this report, Nichols broke down today and confessed to Sheriff W. B. Shaw, of the Rockingham county jail, that he (Nichols) absolutely knows nothing of the crime except that which he read in the papers.

Since the death of his wife, who was only seventeen years old, Nichols claims he thought he was the murderer of the Indianapolis woman physician.

He will be turned over to the Boston police as soon as they send for him.

"Flirted with Jury; Made Monkey of Me"

CHICAGO, April 4.—Miss Esther Mercy, the former "co-ed" at the University of Chicago, who is suing Marion Talbot, Dean of Women at that institution for $100,000 for alleged slander, is accused by Miss Talbot's lawyer, Mr. Walker of flirting with the jury, making "a monkey" of Mr Walker and of making a spectacle of the court. After Judge Pomeroy denied a motion of Mr. Walker to take the case from the jury, arguments of counsel were begun. The case is expected to go to the jury today.

Mr. Walker's accusation against Miss Mercy of flirting with the jurymen was made while arguing on his motion to have the case taken from the jury. He said in part:

"A gross and insulting attack has been made on the greatest university in the world. The plaintiff has continually girled with the jury during the progress of this trial. She has made a monkey of me and a spectacle of this court. She has had scandal enough. She has accomplished her purpose, and the court should take the case from the jury."

LAWYER DEFENDS MARIANO

Family of Suspected Boy Seek Clews to Implicate Man in the Slaying of William Mather.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. April 4.—Antonio Mariano, the fourteen-year-old boy charged with the death of his schoolmate, William Mather, Jr., of North Providence, today repudiated the so-called confession secured from him after a seven-hour grilling by six officers, in a long statement to his attorney, Anthony V. Petitne.

Mariano told his attorney that a man who knew his family well, and whom he supposed to be a friend, told him that the police had secured six witnesses who would swear that the Mather boy was killed by him, and that if he did not tell the police that he killed the boy, he would be held in prison for life, but that if he told them that he did kill the boy through an accident, they would take him home in the same automobile that brought him to the town jail.

Confession Forced, Says Lawyer.

Attorney Petitne, who has been retained by the family of Antonio, visited Mariano at the Sockonnsett, Reform School, where the boy is being held, pending the hearing on the manslaughter charge April 11. The major portion of the conference was held in the presence of Superintendent Gardiner of the school, and when the boy had finished he said:

"I believe that the boy is telling the truth now and his statement made the other night was forced from him in a peculiar manner. I have had an opportunity to study boys for many years, and I think that I know when they are telling the truth."

Mariano told his attorney that when he was taken by the police the last time, he thought that they would do the same as they had done with him on the two previous occasions when he was taken into custody and questioned concerning the crime.

"They left my brother Ralph at Woodville," said Antonio, "then they took me on to Centredale and locked me in a cell. Sometimes one of the policemen would talk to me, sometimes they would all crowd into the place. I had always told them that I did not know anything about what happened to Willie Mather.

"I told them that I did not even know him, and had only seen him around the school that day. That was the first day that I had gone to the Marieville School for a long time.

"The police were so sure that I did kill him that I thought I would jolly them along, and so I told them funny stories. Finally I got scared. I was told that they would keep me there always or send me to a worse place. One of the men who came in said:

"'Tony, I have known you almost all your life. I knew your father that was killed and I know your mother and your sisters. I want you to do the best thing for yourself.

Advised to Admit Crime.

"'We have six boys who will tell that they know you killed the Mather boy. Now, if you tell the police that you didn't kill him they will keep you in jail all your life, for you will be convicted by these other boys, but if you tell us that you did kill him you can say it was an accident, then you will get off and I will take you home in the same automobile that brought you here tonight.'

"So I told them the story about my foot knocking the rock off and how it hit Willie Mather on the head and he died, and then they told me that his body was not found near the big high rock, but down by the old wood road. I had heard about this but had forgotten it, so I said that I dragged him down there.

"Then they asked me where the watch was and I told them that I didn't know, but they kept telling me that I did and that they would have to find that before they would let me go and so I said that it was down by a rock.

Repeated Story in Court.

"We all went out and went over to Moses Angell Hill, where they looked for the watch, but it was not there and I had to keep telling them it was in different places until they got tired and took me to the police station in Providence.

"There were three police officers in the room with me before I went into there the judge was last Monday and these men told me to tell the judge the same story that I had told the officers early Sunday morning.

"So when he asked me if I killed William Mather I said that I did not mean to kill him, just as I had told the officers. They were the only people that I saw and I thought that what they told me was all right and that I would get out of jail."

FIVE-CENT SODA HUSBAND'S LIMIT, SAYS MRS. ALPERT

"The only thing I can remember he ever bought me was a five-cent ice cream soda," said Mrs. Harriet E. Alpert, a bride of a year, in the East Boston District Court before Judge Frank E. Dimock today when her husband, Abraham Alpert was arraigned on a charge of desertion. Alpert was found at his mother's home on Leyrett street, West End, after a search of several months. Mrs. Alpert is living with her mother, Mrs. Sophia Lubell, at No. 89 Cross street, Winthrop

CORNERED OUTLAWS REFUSE TO SURRENDER AND WOUND PURSUERS

HILLSVILLE, Va., April 4.—Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the remaining members of the Allen clan who shot up the courtroom here, killing judge, prosecutor and sheriff, were themselves killed today in a battle with detectives who have been hunting them since the tragedy on March 14, according to reports just received here.

But they died as they said they would, "with their boots on," and before they fell under the bullets of the posse that had closed around them they shot and fatally wounded two detectives.

Hunted for days, forced to flee from place to place by their determined pursuers, their circle of operation gradually growing smaller and smaller, the two desperate outlaws were finally brought to bay.

The posse opened fire and the outlaws responded. At last they had to yield to superior numbers. They would not surrender. They fulfilled the challenge they sent to town six days ago which read:

"A Battle to the Death."

"It will be a battle to the death. If the detectives ever take us back to Hillsville it will be in a wagon with our toes turned up and our boots on.

"Neither of us expects to see home again. We have three revolvers and a pump gun and plenty of ammunition. If we are sighted we will shoot to kill. We will never surrender."

A report that Allen and Edwards had been shot in a battle with detectives was taken to Mt. Airy, N.C., by a rural free delivery mail carrier. A farmer living back in the mountains told him of the fight, the mailman said. Relatives of the Allens within telephone reach of the village had not heard of the reported battle.

Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards were the last of the clan they expected to take. All the others are accounted for as follows:

Freel Allen, son of Jack Allen and nephew of Sidna Allen, captured March 23.

Charles Allen, son of Sidna Allen, captured and in prison.

Floyd Allen, brother of Sidna Allen, captured, wounded and in prison.

Victor Allen, son of Floyd Allen, captured and in prison.

Claude Allen, son of Floyd Allen, captured and in prison.

Sidna Edwards, nephew of Sidna Allen, captured and in prison.

CAPTAIN "BILL" DALY IS DEAD

Captain "Bill" Daly, well-known in sporting, fraternal and political circles, is dead at his home, No. 56 Shirley street, Revere, in his fifty-sixth year, after a long illness. He died at 12:05 p. m. today.

Twenty-five years ago Captain "Bill," as he was known to everybody, represented one of the old Boston wards in the lower branch of the Legislature. In 1900-11 he was a member of the Board of Selectmen of Revere. He was a member of Revere Lodge of Elks, Revere Lodge of Eagles, Knights of Columbus and the A. O. H.

Beside a widow and son, William, Jr., he leaves two sisters, Lucy Ward, wife of "Hap" Ward, of Weed and Yokes theatrical troupe, and Mrs. Joseph E. Brecharit, both of Revere.

MORGAN SELECTS ROMAN SITE FOR AMERICAN ACADEMY

ROME, April 4.—J. Pierpont Morgan spent the whole morning on the top of Janiculum, the loveliest spot in Rome, together with F. D. Millett, to make a definite decision about the building of a new American academy. "I hope that there will eventually be an American institution of art greater than those of any other countries which are already famous," he exclaimed.

SCHUMANN-HEINK FILES DIVORCE SUIT

RENO, Nev., April 4.—The following is published in the Reno Evening Gazette: Mme. Schumann-Heink, the opera singer, while in this city recently, engaged attorneys here to file an action for divorce for her. She does not intend to come to Reno and reside six months before commencing her suit, but it is said she will bring her suit in San Diego.

STUN GIRL; ROB OFFICE SAFE

Two men walked into the offices of E. H. Lansing, dealer in furnishings upstairs at No. 611 Washington street today and after beating Miss Mary Casey almost into insensibility, rifled the safe. They got $6 and made their escape.

The robbery occurred in one of the busiest sections of the city. Hundreds of persons were passing the door. The robbers found but little difficulty in making their escape.

Miss Casey was alone in the office on the second floor. She attempted to halt the robbers in their purpose but was seized by the throat and a blow stunned her until the robbers had fled.

the last two members of the band that shot up the court house. Both had been among the spectators there on that eventful day when Floyd Allen had been found guilty and a fusillade followed which killed Judge Massie, Prosecutor Foster and Sheriff Webb outright, and fatally wounded several others.

The Allens took to the mountains. Edwards and Allen did not keep with the others of the gang who were captured, one by one. Floyd and Sidna Allen were the leaders of the clan. Sidna was a bold, energetic man of middle age who was known throughout the country as a "dead shot" and a "bad man" when in action.

Plans were made to trail the outlaws with militia men, but it was abandoned because it was found that small bands of detectives could do better work than soldiers.

Taken One by One.

On March 17 a posse came upon the Allen gang at Devil's Den. Five days later Sidna Edwards was caught and shortly afterward Claude Swanson Allen was captured. Fred Allen was taken the next day. The gang was growing smaller. Then the detectives found the base of supplies used by Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, and a watch was set upon them. But they were fooled, as the two men discovered that they were watched and they plunged deeper into the forest, where it is thought they had another base of supplies.

Bloodhounds were brought into play early this week and placed upon the trail for the first time. For a week it had been daily reported that a battle was imminent. It was then that Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards sent in their notification to the authorities that they would never be taken alive.

Story of the Tragedy.

It was a fearful tragedy in that court house on March 14.

The thing had been completely prearranged. It was practically announced beforehand. Judge Massie, gallant gray-haired jurist, candidate for the State's Supreme bench, and Foster, the commonwealth attorney, together with the other officers of the court, knew better than anyone else that they were walking under the shadow of death when they entered the courtroom.

And yet they went on with their work. That is the way with Virginians.

They stood helpless, unarmed before their enemies. Even the prisoner, old Floyd Allen, for twenty years the most desperate feudal leader in the mountains, had a gun when the shooting began. It is believed that his first shot killed Judge Massie.

He had been arrested for aiding the escape of two of his nephews from officers, who had arrested the young men on a charge of attacking people on the highway. Floyd Allen's trial was a swift, quiet affair.

There was not a sign of violent intent on the part of the Allen clan or on the part of their enemies who crowded the courtroom. But the evidence was overwhelmingly against the defendant.

His brothers and his clansfolk knew it. That was why the word was passed about the village this morning: "The Allens are coming."

The jury was sent out to deliberate about 9 o'clock in the morning. They returned within an hour. The room was absolutely silent. A stranger unacquainted deliberately struck a match and lighted his pipe. A deputy rebuked him and he put it out.

Allen Declared Guilty.

The clerk, God—who is probably dying—asked the jury foreman what was their verdict.

"Guilty; and we fix the punishment at one year in prison."

Even then there was not a movement among the crowd.

Judge Massie, in his low but stern voice, sentenced the prisoner to the limit. Allen, tall, rough-clad, bearded, a steer upon his hairy lips, moved forward until he stood directly beneath the low rostrum on which the Judge sat.

"I sentence you to one year at hard labor in the prison at Roanoke," said the Judge.

The prisoner smiled defiantly. He half turned and seemingly in that instant gave a signal to his comrades who were distributed throughout the courtroom.

A sudden clamor of voices followed, and next instant the prisoner, whirling on his heel, had fired a shot point blank at the Judge who had just sentenced him. Judge Massie, without a sound, sank dead upon the floor behind the bench.

Signal for a Fusillade.

Instantaneously the courtroom became a battle ground. Shots came from every corner. Foster, the Government's attorney, dropped to his knees and then sprawled upon the floor.

Sheriff Webb rushed forward—to certain death—trying to seize the prisoner. He fell at the feet of Floyd Allen, just as Allen himself went down, pierced through the abdomen by a bullet from an officer or from a rival clansman.

There was not a chance of capturing the Allens in that crowd of terrified men, who recognized them as the kings of the border and who dared not dispute their power.

The assailants made their way quickly out of the courtroom and were soon lost in the mountains. Then the hunt for them began.

This will be a new region when the Allens and their gang are exterminated, and a people who in general are as peaceable as that of any farming community in the State of Illinois will be freed from interference with the personal prerogative of an Allen to "do as he pleased."

If some one gave his word and broke it to Floyd Allen that some one got what he deserved if Floyd beat him insensible with the butt of his gun. If a government agent became too inquisitive as to how an Allen acquired his wealth, and if his meddling into the side of life that was not religious developed a secret still or a suspicion of counterfeiting he was a marked man.

An odium that should not attach to them. The Allens are not ordinary desperadoes. They have murdered for loot. Farmers, most of them, they are among the wealthiest men of the region. They own hundreds of acres of land. They have sent their children to college. One of them is a Primitive Baptist preacher. All in fact, are "Primitive," or, as others call them, "Hard-Shell" Baptists. When the meetings known as "Baptist Associations" have been held in their neighborhood, bringing together persons from scores of miles around, "Mr." Floyd Allen and "Mr." Sidna Allen, as the "best litters" of the section, have taken them into their homes and entertained them. No stranger ever taken of night at the home of an Allen could pay for his supper, lodging or breakfast. Corn for his beast was as free as the mountain air.

Sidna Allen, who shot down Judge Massie, has the second finest home in Carroll county. It is a modern home, a trifle garish in its architecture, but of a type more frequently seen in a small and prosperous city than in the rural districts. There is a windmill that constitutes a water plant, there is modern plumbing, with bathrooms, and the telephone connects with the outside world.

Floyd Allen's Home.

Floyd Allen's home also is a pretentious abode, with modern improvements. Sidna's house, across the road from a general store he owns, may have cost $15,000 or more. When the "raiders" visited the Sidna Allen home they found a grand piano in the parlor and rugs worth $1,000 in readiness to be spread on the floors.

The Allen desperadoism is not of the type which usually is associated with the isolated mountain regions. Anybody could get along with an Allen all right be treating him on the square. This meant treating him as a man and not as a subject.

MRS. ANTHONY, WHO HAS 32 PAIRS OF SHOES

MORSE HOPES TO SAVE RICHESON

Attorney William A. Morse announced today that the petition he is to present to Governor Foss asking for the commutation of the sentence of Clarence V. T. Richeson, condemned to die during the week beginning May 19 for the murder of Avis Linnell, would be submitted to the Governor the latter part of this month.

Attorney John L. Lee of Virginia, senior counsel for Richeson, is expected to reach Boston within the next few days to assist in the fight to save Richeson's life. Both Morse and Lee are confident Governor Foss will never permit Richeson to die in the electric chair.

Richeson has improved in health during the past month. He has grown steeler. It is believed he is resigned to his fate, for he has stopped talking about his case to Butts, his cell mate. Richeson's gain in health is a surprise to his jailers, who expected he would brood over his impending fate until he wasted into a physical wreck.

Danger of Consumption Lies in Neglect

People who have Consumption ascribes their lives needlessly if they give up and take it for granted that nothing can be done for them.

Consumption, it has been demonstrated in Europe, can be overcome even in its worst stages, and while new lung tissue cannot be formed, what remains can be protected against the ravages of the tubercle bacilli.

One of the leading preparations in carrying on this fight in Europe is Sirolin, a preparation which has been imported into this country lately in large quantities to assist in the work here.

Those suffering from Consumption or weak lungs should not fail to secure the aid of Sirolin to assist them back to health.

Information about Sirolin can be secured in this country from the Sirolin Company, 228 West Broadway, New York City.

All leading druggists are recommending and distributing Sirolin with considerable success.

She of the Diamond-Studded Slipper Heels to See Son, a Harvard Junior.

Mrs. Charles H. Anthony of Indiana, known as "The Human Sunburst," who affects diamond studded French heels on her graceful slippers, is coming to Boston to pay a visit to her son, according to advices from New York today.

Mrs. Anthony has completed the conquest of New York. She yearns for new worlds to conquer.

"I want to lead. Anybody can follow. The one who is first is the winner," remarks Mrs. Anthony, "but it isn't every one who can have a teacupful of finest diamonds to put on shoe heels.

"As a matter of fact," she said, "the shoes have given me great pleasure and amusement.

"To begin with, they have brought me over 600 letters from almost every corner of the earth."

Mrs. Anthony has with her five trunks, containing nearly forty gowns and thirty-two pairs of shoes, and she will bring the lot to Boston.

Clear your mind of the idea that Mrs. Anthony is a freak, or a new rich type, or a scatterbrain butterfly.

She is an attractive, wholesome woman, who loves luxury and travel and beautiful clothes and jewels, and who can gratify her love for them without sacrificing anybody's happiness or peace of mind. A woman who tells you she has been married over twenty-six years, has a son twenty-two years old, and thinks it would be beautiful to be a grandmother, is refreshingly frank.

She is about five feet six inches tall and weighing 160 pounds. Her eyes are blue and meet yours frankly and squarely like a child's.

She wore a gown of king's blue cloth with embroidered motifs in which red and green gilt were used. The bodice was fashioned with a deep guimpe of shadow lace, and a plain arrangement of blue chiffon over the embroidery softened the meeting of the lace and cloth. There was a coat of the same and a big black hat trimmed with lace plumes.

Earrings of gold, a ball at the ear and a ball pendant, both diamond-studded. A dog collar of exquisite cameo medallions. A big chain of gold on one wrist, an inch wide band bracelet and a riding crop wristband of gold on the other.

Then rings! On the little finger of the left hand a three-carat diamond in platinum. Near "three," a marquise of nine stones, each one a carat. Middle finger, a curious twisted ring of half-carat stones, centred by a three-carat gem.

Right hand, two solitaires on the little finger, a dinner ring of twenty or more stones near, a cluster on the middle finger.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREAT CASH HOUSE

Friday Three-Hour Sales

EASTER FURNISHINGS from our magnificent new Spring stocks take the lead in this bulletin, although there are plenty of bargains here in lines which do not pertain to Easter. We doubt if a larger array of superior values was ever gathered into one trade announcement, and the more carefully you examine these items the more likely (we believe) you will be to agree with us. Especially tomorrow, alert shoppers should be here promptly.

Mrs. Grace Fears Loss of Her Mind

Declares Charge of Shooting Husband Is Killing Her; Says Death Will Be a Relief.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 4.—Daisy Opie Grace is suffering a pain more keen than a knife blade can inflict and it is wearing her away, according to statements made by her in an interview today.

Every second she is waiting for the news that the man she loved has passed to the beyond and the man who brings the tidings will also bring the command that she must once more enter a prison cell, accused as his assassin.

She granted an interview in her room in the secluded house in an Atlanta suburb to which she was taken from the hotel. Her room is simply furnished. Books and magazines are piled about her, but she cannot read. A Bible is by her elbow. She was robed in a dark blue kimono, reveled with white embroidery. Her dark, wavy hair was carefully dressed. A massive gold bracelet on her shapely left arm was the only jewel she wore.

"I have never believed that Mr. Grace would die," she said, "but now I see day by day seem so certain that every second the dread is with me. I have not known a moment's peace since the day I came from Newnan to hear that I had been accused. It is too terrible to speak of. It's killing me. I can't read. I can't talk. I can't even listen. I can't even sleep. I'm sick—oh, so sick!

"I believe I will lose my mind. In fact, I believe I am losing it. I can think of but one thing. I can read only of my case, and then I have to lie here and think, think, think.

"The better to be here than in a hotel or in the Tower. I guess I'll be in the Tower by this time next week.

"Sunshine is what I need now. I believe if I could get plenty of it I would get well, but I can't get it even out here, people stare at me so. You see how pale I am?" she asked. "Well I used to have a fine color, but it's all gone now. It's from being kept close in this room. Oh, I wish people would let me alone so that I could go out once more."

As her visitor left Mrs. Grace almost sobbed: "I suppose you will next see me in the Tower, but I will not live long there. Death will be relief."

Advices from Newnan report Grace growing weaker. Doctors say death may come at any moment.

Harvard, of Harvard, on Stage

Lionel Poses as a Real Lord

LIONEL DE J. HARVARD

He Is Cast to Play Role of Titled English Gentleman in College Production.

Lionel de Jersey Harvard, the young Englishman, who is in the freshman class at the college bearing his family name, is to play the star role of Lord de Lys in "The Foundlings," one of the four playlets to be presented next week by the Harvard Dramatic Club.

Mr. Harvard is a lineal descendant of a cousin of John Harvard, founder of the college. He is the first "Harvard of Harvard" since the days of the founder.

The role of Lord de Lys is considered by the management of the Harvard Dramatic Club as particularly appropriate for Mr. Harvard, as he is English, has an English manner of speech, or did when he came here at least, and is able to lend himself readily to the role of a young English lord.

In the comedy "The Foundlings," by Mrs. Annie Andrus Hawley, two young girls happen, by mistake, in the apartments which are being used temporarily by Lord de Lys. The girls are discovered there by two of his men friends. Amusing complications ensue. James Taylor, who made a hit as Hanks in "The Night Riders," plays Jardine, one of de Lys' friends. Irving Pichel plays Sir Peter Vale. Max Parry, former president of the Yale Dramatic Club, is Jacob, the butler.

The girls' parts are taken by Miss Dorothy Brewer, Miss Katherine Monroe, Miss Katherine Shontall and Miss Fanny Pullman, all of Radcliffe College.

The three other playlets include "The Head of the Family," by George P. Abbott; "Kit," by Elma Caroline Ehrlich, and "Aaric Jordan's Honor," by Ralph Mc[illegible] Townsend. The production is under the direction of Francis Powell.

CITY HALL NOTES

Brighton will probably get better car service as a result of its town meeting. Mayor Fitzgerald instructed Chief Mooney of the Information Bureau to take up with the Elevated officials the matter of establishing a new 5-minute service from Central and Harvard squares, Cambridge, for residents of Faneuil, Allston and Brighton.

The establishment of an evening high school for the Brighton district will also be recommended by the Mayor in a report of demands made for such a school at the town meeting. The Mayor today forwarded a letter to the school committee asking them to consider an appropriation for the school in their annual budget next year.

Dr. P. H. Mullowney of the Board of Health will make a special study of infantile mortality in Boston. The death rate for the city is alarmingly high due to the large number of deaths of infants under one year. Dr. Mullowney's investigation will be largely for the purpose of finding preventive measures to reduce the mortality.

The School Committee has announced that it has referred to the superintendent for investigation and report, the suggestion of Mayor Fitzgerald that classes be formed for chauffeurs and those who wish to make a study of the automobile and the different type of engines that are part of the horseless vehicles.

PLAN BILL TO WIDEN AVENUE

After a conference with Mayor Fitzgerald today, Corporation Counsel Corbett began the preparation of the bill which will be presented to the Legislature calling for the widening of St. James avenue.

The bill will have to be adopted under a suspension of the rules, but since the business and commercial organizations of the city are unanimously in favor of the speedy completion of this improvement, favorable action on the part of the Legislature is confidently expected.

The Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board is the latest organization to go on record as favoring the widening. In a letter to the Mayor, Secretary Fred H. Vinal states that the organization passed this vote:

"That the Directors of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board join with the Chamber of Commerce in requesting the City Council to authorize the Mayor to petition the present Legislature for permissive legislation covering the proposed widening and extension of St. James avenue."

The Chamber of Commerce in urging the improvement states that the city will be able to take action now under the most advantageous conditions, and points out that if the improvement is not undertaken at once, the city will lose considerable money because the prices of property along St. James avenue will be increased owing to the land improvements that are to take place on the railroad's land. The Chamber has written every member of the City Council urging his cooperation.

DORA B. SMITH NOW SEEKS ACCOUNT FROM WOMAN'S CLUB HEAD

Alleging that Isabelle A. Potter, president of the Woman's Club House Corporation, has no right to keep the money, Dora Bascom Smith has brought a bill in the Superior Court seeking an accounting for $1,059.35 claimed to be in the hands of the president.

After the trustees, R. Elmer Townsend and E. R. Anderson, said the property for $150,000 and paid all the debts of the corporation there remained a balance of $1,059.35. The amount was paid to the treasurer, who turned it over to the president.

By a vote of 295 to 210 the president was authorized to retain the amount for her own use. The plaintiff alleges the president performed no services nor did anything for which she was entitled to receive that amount. She asks to have the court ascertain whether anything is due the president and after paying the same to have her turn over the balance.

ENGLISH GIRLS TO SING OLD SONGS

A concert of folksongs of England will be given by three English girls at the Twentieth Century Club Hall, No. 3 Joy street, tonight. The Drama League and Twentieth Century Club are sponsors for the entertainment.

The Misses Grisko, Dorothy and Rosalind Fuller, accompanied by their brother, Walter G. Fuller, interpret ancient English, Scottish and Irish songs.

BROCKTON CLUB HOST TO WOMEN

BROCKTON, April 4.—More than 200 delegates, representing nineteen women's clubs from all over the district, this afternoon attended the conference held under the auspices of the public health department of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs at the Porter Congregational Church. The Brockton Club for the first time in its history was hostess for the federation.

Rev. W. B. Geoghegan of New Bedford spoke on "Local Tuberculosis Hospitals," Dr. William Hall Coon of Haverhill told about "Health Inspection in Factories," Dr. Lauruna A. Chubbuck of New Bedford spoke on "Moral Reform from a Physician's Standpoint," and Dr. Evangeline W. Young of Boston gave the closing address on "Sex Hygiene."

CARES NOT FOR ALSOP'S MONEY

LITCHFIELD, Ct., April 3.—Mrs. Effie Pope Hill Alsop declared today that she does not care whether Edward B. Alsop, her seventy-five-year old husband, possesses $5,000,000 or five cents. She loves him anyway. The youthful bride got out of bed at the Spring Hill Sanitarium here today to say so—got out of bed and said so in a pale blue silk gown, blue silk stockings, blue sandals and a cute blue hair ribbon.

"I'll always be satisfied if my husband keeps me in squabs and raspberries," declared the girl bride. "Of course I know of Mr. Alsop's intention to transfer $2,000,000 to his sons. That was an estate which came down from his first wife's family, and his sons are the rightful heirs.

"I was ill long before I was married. Mr. Alsop decided recently that I needed a rest cure. My husband is coming here soon, and we are then going to Washington to live."

The young, home-loving wife, her troubled heart just yearning for domestic bliss, said she was very much upset by the cruel rumors.

"Your mother indicates that Mr. Alsop rocked the matrimonial boat by getting rid of so much money," she was told.

"It wasn't Mr. Alsop's money," replied his affectionate wife. "It was an estate passed on by the Hussey family, from which the first Mrs. Alsop came. He had nothing to do with it and could not give it to his sons, the rightful heirs. But, anyway, money doesn't interest me."

"Your mother is quoted as saying that she would engage counsel to see that your financial interests are protected," pursued the heartless inquirer.

"Don't Bother Mother."

"Why do reporters persist in bothering my mother?" demanded the loving bride peculiarly. "Take it from me, no lawyer will be engaged. It is an outrage to even hint that there is any trouble between Mr. Alsop and me. Our love is too great ever to be destroyed.

"Where do such stories come from? We have done nothing, said nothing, to inspire them. You know we had no honeymoon. I was ill long before I was married and when I got to Washington my illness took such a turn that Mr. Alsop decided that I should go to a rest cure. He communicated with the proprietor of this sanitarium and met me here by letter, he and Mrs. Tom Pierce, with whom I became acquainted when I joined her luncheon club, there with me at Litchfield. Then he went on to Pittsburg.

Doesn't Need Board.

"Were Mr. Alsop to be without money I should not worry. I did not have to marry him in order to be certain of bed and board. I lived as well for fourteen years as I am living now. Doesn't that prove to you that I did not marry for money? Just as I told you at the Waldorf on the day after the wedding, I say now, I'll be satisfied if he keeps me supplied with squabs and raspberry ice.

"Mr. Alsop sent me a letter from Pittsburg Monday. He said he would come up here and get me when Dr. Burd thought I was cured. I had a severe cold and a nervous breakdown, which threatened to develop into pneumonia, when I got here. I am getting better, but these scandalous reports are not helping me any.

A dispatch from Pittsburg says that Edward B. Alsop vigorously denied that he had found life unreligious and unsatisfying.

"Considering that no couple could be happier than we have been," the white-haired bridegroom said, "these idle stories would be laughable if they were not annoying. Indeed, they are cruel, considering that my wife has been ill. She is nearly well now, however, and in two or three days I shall take her from the sanitarium, quite recovered, and we shall go together to New York or Washington."

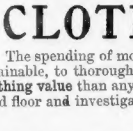
A very fortunate purchase for you—right in time for Easter. No waists are more popular and no other waists look as neat as tailored waists.

Made of good quality linon and linen—one model open front with panel of dainty embroidery, laundered collar and cuffs; another model with wide side plaits, long sleeves, laundered collar and cuffs.



The Racquet Waist

The Newest Tailored Waist $1.00

An exclusive Siegel model that is becoming as popular as the Russian blouse, for which this store is headquarters.

Made of good quality linon, plaited front, with deep sailor collar in blue; belt at waist line buttoned with large pearl buttons.

Mail Orders Filled—Second Floor

WHERE WILL YOU BUY YOUR EASTER CLOTHES?

Time for choosing is brief—forty-eight hours only. The spending of money is a serious proposition. You are entitled to the best values obtainable, to thorough satisfaction. For the same amount of money we can give you more clothing value than any other Men's Store in New England. We invite you to come to our 3d floor and investigate. Is this a fair proposition? The verdict lies with you.

HUNT MAN WHO ROBBED JEWELLER OF A $250 PIN

The police today are looking for a man who held up L. A. Hall, a Temple place jeweler at the corner of Dover street and Shawmut avenue, and relieved him of a diamond scarf pin valued at $250. Mr. Hall gave chase, but the thief escaped.

The jeweller had left the Dover street Elevated station. When he reached the junction of Shawmut avenue and Dover street his assailant jumped from the shadow of a doorway and robbed Mr. Hall.

Grant Claims 'Aviation' Bride in June

Society Honors Hub Man and Fiancee

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH EVER PRINTED OF MARIE DISSTON, PATRICK GRANT'S FIANCEE.

Interest in the coming marriage of Patrick Grant, the third son of Judge and Mrs. Robert Grant of Bay State road, was heightened in Boston today upon receipt of news that the young man had reached Philadelphia from Ormond, Fla., to visit his fiancee, Miss Marie Disston, and family, and make arrangements for the coming ceremony.

Young Mr. Grant is the guest of the parents of Miss Disston, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Disston, at their handsome country home, Norwood Hall, Chestnut Hill, a suburb of Philadelphia.

While the young man is in Philadelphia he will be extensively entertained in company with his bride-to-be. A dinner is being arranged at the Bellevue-Stratford and a box party is to be given at the Mask and Wig Club's show in Easter week.

The date of the wedding has not been fixed, but it will probably be in June, following Harvard commencement, as Mr. Grant wants some of his Harvard friends to attend the wedding.

It is said that Mr. Grant and his fiancee were first attracted to each other through their mutual interest in aviation. Always being interested in athletics and outdoor life, Mr. Grant went to Florida to learn aviation. There he met Miss Disston. The young couple made several short flights together and this led to the long matrimonial flight they are about to take.

Judge and Mrs. Grant received word not long ago of the engagement of their son to the popular young woman. They have not met her as yet. The wedding will be one of the leading social events of the season in Philadelphia and will be attended by many Bostonians.

Judge Grant is judge of the Probate Court in Boston. He is a literary friend of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and the Colonel visited him on a recent visit to Boston.

LOVE BALLAD STARTS A SUIT

Echoes of that tender, lilting melody, "All That I Ask of You Is Love," sung softly in a clear soprano on a quiet night recently, when the air was fragrant with the breath of flowers and young Daniel Cupid fared forth with his quiver jammed with arrows, will be heard in the Dedham Court tomorrow in a divorce suit that is expected to set Boston and Brookline social circles agog.

The fair singer of the love song, it is charged, was Mrs. Mildred Hoyt Woodruff. Her husband, Lewis S. Woodruff, a Boston broker, makes the accusation. The complaint being that she sang it to another man—a prominent Beacon street physician, while he reclined with his head in her lap and listened to the entrancing strains.

It is a song with a peculiarly tender, swinging refrain, and with words that are susceptible of caressing rendition. This is how it goes:

I care not what the world may say,
Or if it mock and jeer;
I'd care not for its smiles and frowns,
If you were always near.
You are my very all in all,
Beneath the heaven's blue
And all else is as naught to me,
The breath of life is you.

All that I ask is love,
All that I want is you;
And I swear by all the stars,
I'll be forever true.
All that I seek to know,
All that I want above,
All that I crave in this wide, wide world,
All that I ask of you is love.

The chorus of this song is marked, "Valse lente"—waltz slowly. And when it comes to the last line of the chorus there is a long "hold" on the word next to the last, so that more thrilling and passionate tenderness may be infused into the final word, "love."

This is the second stanza.
To greatest heights or lowest depths,
I'd go to be with you.
Your kisses burn upon my lips,
And thrill me through and through.
To be with you I'd gladly give
My very soul and all.
Without you life is incomplete,
I'm yours beyond recall.

When Edgar Selden finished this lyrical gem he shut up his typewriter, not having anything more to say. He had used up about all the affection that his ardent keys could produce. Anything else would have been an anti-climax, except a repetition on the chorus, with its long, lingering, throbbing finale:

"All that I ask of you is love!"

On the rocks and crags of Ogunquit on the picturesque coast of Maine, it is related that Mrs. Woodruff sang the tender song while the waves of the sea rippled an accompaniment.

The husband waves the singing of this love song into a suit for divorce, complaining that it was sung on "moonlight walks," at "veranda parties," and even during "wading parties."

Mrs. Woodruff in a counter complaint states a woman, but does not say whether or not she sang love songs to her husband. Mrs. Woodruff is the daughter of the late Charles H. Hoyt, who left an estate valued at $1,000,000. She and her husband lived at No. 42 Harrison road, Brookline.

Modern Shakespeare! Portia a Suffragette

Monologue by Senator Bailey on Matches, Shylock and Ex-President Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—In the face of a bitter attack by Senator Bailey, the Senate passed the Esch-Hughes House bill to put a prohibition tax upon the manufacture or importation of white phosphorus matches. Mr. Bailey called the measure a monstrosity and spoke pointedly of the fact that many women had demanded its passage.

The Senator quoted a little Shakespeare and declared that Portia was a suffragette who palmed off a subterfuge in her argument before the court which tried Shylock's claim.

"When the labor agitators and the women get through running this Congress there will not be a shred of the Constitution left," said he.

Senator Lodge had the bill in charge and when Senator Bailey spoke of agitators he referred to the friendship between the Senator and "a former President" (Roosevelt), whom he characterized as "the most pernicious of agitators."

WRITES KISSES; SLASHES THROAT

"Well, Emily, good-by. I hope you will forgive me. Kisses for you and the baby.

"JOHN."

This is the farewell note which was found in the pocket of an unidentified man who attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat, at Wakefield. He is now at the Melrose Hospital, and it is believed that he will die.

He was found lying in the gutter on Main street. His breath smelled very strongly of liquor, and the police believe that the effects of the liquor drove him to attempt suicide.

The note, which was found in his pocket, was written in lead pencil on the back of the sales slip of a grocery concern.

Recipes for Wrinkles and Bad Complexions

(From Art and Nature.)

Of all the recipes in my scrap book here are two that have always given complete satisfaction:

Wrinkle Remover—One ounce powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. It brings instantaneous results.

Face Powder—Pure mercolized wax, applied at night like cold cream, only not rubbed in; wash off in the morning. It makes your complexion clear skin to come off in tiny, almost invisible flakes, a little each day, until the fresh young under-skin is wholly in evidence. The beautiful transformation obtained is not to be compared with one made over with cosmetics. As cost of the work is sufficient. The ingredients named are inexpensive and can be found in any drug store.—Louise LeBlanc.

WOMEN'S SUITS—LESS THAN VALUE

Don't be startled. We haven't broken our iron rule that taboos exaggeration. The following quotations represent hard, hones facts.

It is the first time this season we have told you that the Suits we offer are worth more than the prices asked. It's the first chance we have had to make the statement truthfully. We never indulge in such a claim unless it is absolutely accurate. Yes, we suppose we are a bit peculiar in that. Most of the Suits are SAMPLES—genuine samples. It's only fair for us to remind you that among the samples there is only one of a kind.

WOMEN'S $25.00 SUITS AT $18.50

Plain serges and fancy worsteds for women, and Norfolk models made of serges and mixtures for misses. The price is only $18.50, but if you know Suits you'll recognize $25.00 worth of tone and quality in each of them.

WOMEN'S $29.75 SUITS AT $19.75

Serges, whipcords, worsteds and fine Venetian cloth in black, white and colors. Others are made of fancy mixtures. Some are trimmed with silk, splendidly finished. The lot includes Suits worth up to $29.75. Remarkable values.

WOMEN'S $35.00 SUITS AT $25.00

Novelty mixtures, white serge, trimmed in all the newest effects with braid and laces. Others are handsomely embroidered. We say they are $35.00 Suits. Many are worth $39.75. They are beautiful models.

WOMEN'S $45.00 SUITS AT $29.75

Imported materials, including white serge, basket weaves, whipcords, fancy mixtures. They are worth up to $45.00. You may choose blindfolded and never go astray. No better value offered this season anywhere.

WAISTS FOR EASTER

The Waist Store has been re-made. Everything new—except the policy. And the better you understand it the better you like it.

The highly-polished mahogany tables and chairs, and the beautiful crystal cases and the exquisite Waists—all standing out clear beneath a strong, unobstructed Northern light would count for little unless our prices were right. We sincerely believe we do better by our customers on Waists than any other store in Boston. And you are finding it out. Such things can't be hidden. The recent improvements came in direct response to the needs of the store's growth.

LINGERIE WAISTS, sheer lawn; yoke and collar of Valenciennes lace and eyelet embroidery; front and back trimmed with same; short, lace-finished sleeves..... $5.00

WAISTS made of chiffon—navy, black, brown, Copenhagen, gray—draper over silk; braided yoke in the popular scalloped design; V-shaped inner yoke of white shadow net, tucked front and back; short sleeves, finished with cuffs. Search through all competing stores and you'll not find an equal value..... $5.00

MILLINERY FOR EASTER

"What impresses you most?" we asked of a visiting milliner who was inspecting our display. "The DIVERSITY," came the answer in tones of conviction.

Yes, the variety we show is great. We have endeavored to have a HAT for every taste.

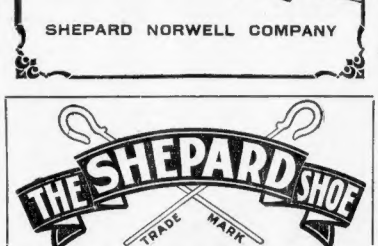
We don't concentrate on a few new quirks and attempt to force them on you whether they become you or not. That's a narrow policy. Our plan is to study the style centres exhaustively and secure EVERYTHING that FASHION smiles on. The effect that does not appeal to you may inspire another with intense admiration.

Yes, the universality—the comprehensiveness of our Easter Millinery Exposition is one of its largest elements of popularity.

Beauty is everywhere. It abounds. You'll find it in the shapes—saucy or simple—in the trimmings—obtrusive or modest.

Creations—materialized dreams of color and form. Airy, fairy fancies wrought of straw, of chiffon, of braid, of filmy, tractable stuffs as light and graceful as cloud-fleece.

Come, see all this prettiness.



CHILDREN'S EASTER SHOES

Some day we will write an ADVERTISEMENT about the SHEPARD SHOE that will do it justice. It may require several days to write it, and the ADVERTISEMENT will be very short. Haven't time now to write a brief ADVERTISEMENT. We are profuse and diffusive when hurried. Terse, concise statements are only made after much thought.

SHEPARD SHOES are for boys and girls.

Prices begin at 50c a pair for baby and end at $3.50 a pair for the almost grown-up boy or girl.

If there be a better Shoe for young folk we haven't found it—and we have tried long and faithfully.

When casting about for a place to buy Shoes for your children decide to try the SHEPARD SHOE. You'll never have cause to regret. We stand back of every pair. Proper service must be rendered or you're not allowed to keep the Shoes.

Feeling that way about the matter, you may be sure we do not skimp the Shoes anywhere. They are as right as we can get them.

SPRING COATS

WOMEN'S COATS $10.00

Long Coats, made of gray and tan mixtures, colored bengaline collars. Especially adapted for misses and small women.

WOMEN'S COATS $12.50

WOMEN'S COATS $18.50

Fine serge, trimmed with silk, mixtures and double-faced diagonals, deep collar, long shawl effect. Stylish and serviceable garments.

CHILDREN'S STORE

Sharp wits working brightly keep the Children's Store proper.

The physical store itself is not in harmony with the merchandise. But wait. Time rights all things. We have an ideal of what a Children's Store should be. Even now the artists and architects are trying to interpret it.

Meanwhile, the goods and prices express our notion of economy completely.

High prices are usually charged for such things. It's a tradition—a fogy tradition still observed in most stores. We are revolutionizing the mildewed idea. Children's Clothes at fair prices.

Infants' Hats, a sample batch of the Springiest styles, trimmed with ribbon and flowers; worth up to $3.00. Special..... $1.95

Infants' Bonnets, fancy straws coaxed into shapes of cuteness—saucily trimmed with ribbons and flowers; worth $1.50. Special $1.00

U. S. Navy Is Threatened as Japanese Plots Are Uncovered

WILL THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY REPEAT THE SAME OLD PERFORMANCE?

G. O. P. SEIZES DEMOCRATS' CHANCE ON NAVY QUESTION WHILE JAPANESE ARE ACTIVE.

This is not a period of national poverty, and if it was, the last expression of parsimony should find its way to the national defence.

The Democratic majority, if it cuts to pieces the battleship program which it had previously made, is simply sowing the political whirlwind.

The exigencies of a pre-election policy can justify this beginning of a movement which has so far kept the American navy in the forward rank of the world. The politicians of parsimony may triumph for a season, but the reaction will surely send them back to the people for a new education in the American spirit.

Lodge No Alarmist.

It is agreed among all the far-seeing leaders in Congress that the needs of the navy are above politics. One of the most eminent military authorities in Washington, in conversation with a Senator today, said:

"If Japan is going to fight this country at all, she will fight before the completion of the Panama Canal. That is what the Magdalena Bay colony means. There will be no waiting for the United States to declare war, either. As soon as Japan is ready she will strike, and to cripple our navy is nothing short of idiotic."

The introduction of the Lodge resolution is the first movement in the campaign of education by which the Republicans mean to teach the people of the country the need of an adequate navy. Lodge, who is one of the Republican leaders in the Senate, is an ultra-conservative. No alarmist talk ever comes from him. And when he goes deliberately to work to let daylight into a Japanese war statement, it means that his Republican colleagues are in earnest about battleships.

Out of the mass of Democratic apathy in the House Representative Sulzer looms defiant and clear on the side of patriotism. He said to me today: "The country knows that I am, and always have been, the friend and the consistent advocate of the navy. I voted in the recent Democratic caucus for the continuance of the battleship program which has become part of our naval policy.

"Navy a National Insurance."

"The American people take a just pride in their navy. They have every reason to feel proud of it. It is a bulwark of defence, a mighty instrumentality of offence, and a national insurance. Every dollar spent on the navy is just so much expended for police.

"There should be no politics in our naval program or in continuing the efficiency of the naval arm of the government. The navy is non-partisan, and every true American, no matter what his opinions may be regarding economy in other things, is opposed to economy to maintaining the strength of the navy. We must take no steps backward in our naval policy. To do so is penny wise and pound foolish.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Information has been received by the War Department that customs officers in Mexico have organized a plot to hold up the guns and ammunition now due in Vera Cruz for the defence of the American colony in Mexico City. The plea will be that the customs duty should be paid upon these arms.

As President Madero has given his consent to the admission of such arms, the opinion was expressed there today that the customs officials are in league with the insurrectionists who are anxious to prevent the arrival of the arms in Mexico City, even at the peril of provoking reprisals from the United States.

It is certain that if the arms are held up by the customs officials that they will be released by the guards Wednesday which is now at Galveston and which received orders to that effect today. In reply to the ultimatum that the Vera Cruz and Mexico railroads must be kept open until arms reach Mexico City, President Madero replied through Ambassador Wilson today that he would immediately take up the question at a special meeting of the Cabinet.

Mikado's Government Determined to Test the Monroe Doctrine in Mexico.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES,

Editorial Correspondence of the American.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The stupid thing that a despairing Republican party has been eagerly expecting a flourishing Democracy to do is now to be done—WITH THE AMERICAN NAVY AS THE VICTIM.

The Democratic donkey, browsing amid the foolish thistles of economy, is permitting the Republican elephant to walk off with the hay.

And a patriotic people will be sure to time, are depreciating the people. There is no spirit of economy in the country applaud the elephant.

The Democratic leaders, for the first that calls for a sacrifice of public safety.

Tells Consumptives How He Got Well

Tuberculosis is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking an abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Undoubtedly, some persons are benefited in this way; but the appropriate remedy for Consumption is Eckman's Alterative. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight, eat wholesome, nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest and purest air—then, to the sensible things of wight living, add the tonic and curative effects of Eckman's Alterative. Read what it did in this case:

609 West Street, Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen: In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, one of the leading practitioners, said that it was lung trouble. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak, and I kept on working in the store. The doctors said I would not gain in weight as long as I stayed in the store, but I kept on working and prayed each day that I might get well. I believe my prayers were answered, for Mr. C. A. Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott & Co., Department Store, 206 to 214 Market street, Wilmington, Del.), had learned of a remedy called Eckman's Alterative that had done great good, and upon his recommendation I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and soon noticed the effects of the tonic which expressed itself in increasing in flesh and strength. I now take no trouble with my cough, firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life. I sent my sputtle later to the State Board of Health to be examined for tuberculosis germs, and none were found.

"My mother died from Consumption when I was about two years old.

"I feel so thankful to you that others may learn of the wonderful merits of Eckman's Alterative, I regard my recovery as being little short of a miracle." (Signed Affidavit) JAS. GOPPINS.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons or habit forming drugs. Prepared only by all Riker-Jaynes stores, Hoodless & Burton Drug Co., and other agents in all towns. Write Dr. Beckley, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

MAINE RELICS COMING TO THE MUSEUM IN THE NAVY YARD HERE

Captain De Witt Coffman, commandant of the navy yard, has received notice from Washington that a collection of small relics of the battleship Maine will be sent here to be placed in the museum. They consist of six pieces of china ware, bearing the ship's name; a chronometer, quadrant, sextant, cutlass, rifle, revolver, boat hook, medal and a bunch of hand irons. It is expected that they will be received this week.

"WILSON CAN'T WIN"—CROKER

NEW YORK, April 4.—Richard Croker has expressed the hope that the Democrats will not nominate Woodrow Wilson for President because he believes the New Jersey Governor cannot be elected.

While not committing himself absolutely to any aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination, Mr. Croker said he thought Governor Marshall of Indiana would meet his approval perhaps better than any one else. The former Tammany chief also spoke in high terms of Champ Clark, and predicted that if nominated the Speaker would carry the country.

Asked his opinion of Governor Wilson as a presidential possibility, Mr. Croker said:

"I do not regard him as a Democrat, as I do Marshall or Clark. No man can claim to be a good Democrat, who, like Governor Wilson, has assailed practically every foreign born citizen of the United States, as he did in his books and in his speeches, of course, we are all Americans and proud of it. But what right has a man to ask the votes of American citizens born abroad who has so shamefully attacked them?

"I do not say that Governor Wilson is a 'Know Nothing.' I presume that the Governor would deny it if anyone accused him of this. But there was once a 'Know Nothing Party' in the country. Tammany Hall was formed to fight it in the name of liberty. And Tammany fought it so successfully that here has been no 'Know Nothing Party' in four or more days.

"I do not see how Wilson can be nominated in view of his record. And should he be so nominated he would surely be defeated.

"I believe, if nominated, Marshall would be elected. I have also a very high opinion of Champ Clark and Governor Harmon. Clark has made a splendid record as Speaker of the House of Representatives. He is among those who I think could carry the country."

CHAMP CLARK MAKES GAINS IN WISCONSIN OVER GOV. WILSON

Champ Clark makes gains against Wilson in late Wisconsin returns.

Roosevelt wins two delegates in Missouri.

Taft in an address at Washington to the Cotton Manufacturers' Association urges revision of the tariff by a scientific board.

Colonel Roosevelt comes to New Hampshire on April 13.

Arthur D. Hill in an address in Somerville calls on the people to rally to support Roosevelt against the machine.

Senator Dixon, Roosevelt manager, in an interview at Bethel, Vt., declares that Taft's nomination means sure defeat for the Republican party.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 4.—Champ Clark has carried at least ten, if not a majority, of Wisconsin's twenty-six delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Tuesday's presidential primary, according to his Wisconsin managers. In spite of the extravagant claims made by the Wilson managers that the New Jersey Governor had won the complete delegation, belated returns coming in from country districts are rapidly eclipsing Wilson's lead in the cities.

Here is the result in detail, as nearly as can be ascertained until the official returns are received at the State capitol.

Wilson carries the first, second and eleventh districts and the four delegates-at-large. Wilson probably gets the fifth district. Clark gets the second and ninth districts, and one from the fourth Milwaukee district. Clark probably gets the eighth and probably another in the fourth district.

HUNT FOR FIREBUG IN NORTH END

Thirty men, women and children were roused and led to the street by the police when an incendiary fire was discovered early today in the tenement at No. 12 Unity street, North End.

The police see in the fire a new attempt by the firebug who terrified the district and harassed the department a few months ago. The State Police at once began an investigation.

The tenement is a four-story brick building, and houses twelve families. When the fire was first discovered, these people had not awakened, and Sergeant Donovan and Patrolman Durham of the Hay Street station, made their way into the house, roused the inmates and led them to the street.

SUBSTITUTE LABOR "PERSUASION" BILL

By a rollcall vote of 114 to 80, the House of Representatives today overturned the adverse report of the Committee on Judiciary and substituted organized labor's "peaceful persuasion" bill," which was vetoed by Governor Foss last year. Most of the Democrats voted for the bill. The bill, which is on the petition of the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, permits strikers to communicate with strikebreakers and to try to persuade them to join their cause without resorting to violence. It also provides that no court shall issue injunctions restraining such persuasion.

MAN BLOWN UP BY POWDER BLAST

NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 4.—One man was blown to bits another was so badly injured that he will probably dies and a number of others had narrow escapes from death in an explosion in the pressing department of the Burton Powder Company's plant twelve miles from here today. Fragments of the body of the man killed was found a quarter of a mile from the scene.

LADY BUTLER, THE BRIDE-TO-BE OF MARQUIS STAFFORD

Lady Eileen Butler to Be Bride of Noted Traveler and Sportsman.

LONDON, April 4.—No topic offers such a fruitful fund of gossip and discussion in court circles here today as the union of the two houses of Lulnborough and Stafford by the marriage next week of Lady Eileen Gladys Butler, elder daughter of the Earl of Lulnborough, and the Marquis of Stafford, the Duke of Sutherland's oldest son and heir. One interesting feature is that there will be fourteen bridesmaids.

Lord Stafford, as the heir to a dukedom, and incidentally, to over a million acres of land, was the most eligible earl among England's noble bachelors. He is considered a first-class example of the English sportsman, and is a good shot, and a daring rider to hounds. About a year ago he met with a bad accident while hunting behind the Curtesmore Hounds. He is a great traveler, like his father, and is familiar with every country on the Continent, though he has never visited America.

His bride-to-be is twenty years old, and was one of the six ladies selected by Queen Mary as train-bearers at the coronation. The entire six were earls' daughters. The girl is an expert sailor, and, like her fiance, has traveled in many parts of the world.

Lady Eileen is a brunette, tall, and strikingly handsome. She is a popular figure in society in Ireland and in Leicestershire, where her father has two beautiful residences. She also is fond of hunting, and is a frequent follower of the Queen.

FALLS INTO SHAFT OF AN ELEVATOR

John Coffee, 48 years old, of No. 43 St. Vernon street, Dorchester, was probably fatally injured today when he fell into the pit of an elevator shaft at the Walter Baker Company's plant at Dorchester Lower Mills. He had just driven into the building with his team and opened the elevator gate thinking that the cage was at the surface level. He was sent to the City Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from contusions on the back and possibly severe internal injuries.

DONOVAN IS OUT FOR CITY CLERK

James Donovan of Ward 9, former chairman of the Democratic City Committee, will be a candidate for city clerk to succeed the late John T. Priest, according to political gossip at City Hall today. He will have, it is claimed, the support of Councillors John A. Coulthurst of Ward 23, John J. Attridge of Ward 9, Walter L. Collins of Ward 20, and possibly Daniel J. Mellonahl of Ward 3.

The news was made public today by a prominent politician connected with the Doyle-Donovan-Kelliher faction. It is understood that Councillor John J. Attridge, chairman of the City Committee, is behind the Donovan candidacy. He is a protege of Donovan.

John F. Dever of Ward 17, clerk of committees, threw his "hat into the ring" yesterday and intends to keep it there until his appointment is made. He counts on the support of at least five members of the City Council.

The entrance of Donovan into the clerkship fight at this time, it is said, disposes of the Kelliher candidacy. It likewise paves a clear field in the sheriff fight next Tuesday, when Sheriff Quinn, appointed by Governor Foss to succeed the late Sheriff Beavey, will go before the people as a candidate.

Councilor Attridge is connected with the new firm of Sheriff Quinn and is in a prodicament with Donovan as a candidate for sheriff in opposition to his law partner. It is for that reason, it is claimed, Attridge is behind the Donovan candidacy for city clerk.

PARIS AUTO BANDITS KILL EXPRESSMAN

PARIS, April 4.—Defying the police who captured Caron, one of their ringleaders, yesterday, another daring thug was added to the long list by the automobile bandits today when four armed men held up an express wagon in the vicinity of Corbeil. Le Rol, six miles from Paris, killed the driver by strangling him, looted the wagon of a large quantity of valuables and fled after securing the dead body by the roadside. The crime has heightened the wave of terror in and about this city and has stimulated the police to more desperate efforts to run down the robbers.

Mills Hard Hit by Popular "Tube" Skirt

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Twelve yards of cotton goods for every woman in the civilized world is the price the cotton interests of the world have paid for the "tube" skirt and its accompanying lack of undergarments, according to George W. Neville, president of the New York Cotton Exchange, who addressed the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association. Mr. Neville was applauded when he announced that the "moulders" of feminine fashions have now decreed that the ladies shall wear more yards of cloth in their garments.

"One of my friends of a mathematical mind figured the scanty attire of the fair sex cut out at least twelve yards of finished goods per adult female inhabitant of the civilized world," said Mr. Neville, "and this scant attire cut a very large figure and was a contributing factor to the small demand for finished goods the past year."

Three times the normal effort required here—tired horses

ALCO Motor Trucks

This downhill strain means wasted energy—tired horses

The Follies of Animal Transportation

When a team of horses pulls two or three tons up a hill, say of a ten per cent grade, they become pretty well tuckered out. There is a great strain. The effort required to get the load up the hill would doubtless equal the effort required to pull the same load two or three miles on a level street. Result: very tired horses.

But if you stop to consider, it takes also some effort for a team of horses to hold back a load coming down a hill.

It doesn't require as much effort, of course, as going up, but there is considerable energy expended. And every ounce of it counts with horse or animal transportation.

Every step lessens a horse's energy for the day. At the end of the day he is a tired animal. Through the day he must have his rest spells—his recesses from hauling.

An Alco motor truck never tires.

Going up a hill is without effort. Hills make no difference. The strong, powerful motor of the Alco pulls the load up in less than half the time it takes horses to descend.

In going down the hill the powerful quick acting brakes hold the truck rigidly in the control of the driver. There are four different brakes. Two of them are on the rear wheels in drums. Two of them are the locomotive, or clasp, type of brakes. They are on the jack shaft.

This is not presented as a major argument for installing motor trucks but it is a major argument why you should look into them and find out what they can do. Make the start by 'phoning Columbus 5300 and ask to have an Alco Transportation Expert call on you. No charge.

SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS SELF

PROVIDENCE, April 4.—Because his wife, Mrs. Louise Gunner, twenty-five, of New Bedford refused to return to him, James M. Gunner, forty, shot her and then killed himself with the same revolver. Mrs. Gunner today is in a serious condition.

The shooting followed a quarrel at the home of Mrs. Gunner's mother in this city, where she had been visiting.

Mrs. Gunner came here to visit her mother, Mrs. Fannie Reull of Robinson street. Gunner went to Mrs. Reull's home in the early evening and started out to accompany his wife to the train.

They became involved in an argument when Gunner asked her to go with him to his room and when the two entered the corner of Prairie avenue and Somerset street Gunner pulled a revolver from his pocket. Mrs. Gunner started to run, but her husband shot her in the left side of the head and then knelt over her body to find out how badly she was wounded.

Gunner then sent a bullet into his own brain and was dead within a few minutes.

UNUSUAL WILL OF COHASSET WOMAN ALLOWED BY COURT

The will of Mary C. Browne of Cohasset, written in her own hand on a small piece of note paper, though most unusual in construction, will stand, for it is now recorded in the Suffolk Probate Court at Dedham. The will reads:

"In case of my sudden decease I put this in my own handwriting as my last wish.

"I want Herbert to have my deed of my house transformed to him and $1000 insurance $164, the rest to be transformed to my book No. 3680 and given to Clara. The contents of book No. 4475 all given to Walter. Then I appoint Clara to pay my expenses from book 3680 as I have given her instructions."

The estate amounts to $5000, equally divided in real estate and personal property. Mrs. Clarissa Nichols, a daughter, is executrix with sureties of $5000. There are two sons, Herbert P. Browne and Walter C. Browne.

Stage Beauty Quits Husband

Miss Lorraine 11 Days Wed

LILLIAN LORRAINE, THE NOTED STAGE BEAUTY.

It Is Said She Refused to Leave Footlights at Her Husband's Request.

After a honeymoon of eleven days Lillian Lorraine, the stage beauty, and her husband, Frederick Gresheimer of Chicago, have agreed to separate, according to dispatches today from New York.

One reason assigned is that Mr. Gresheimer objected to his bewildering bride remaining on the stage. She refused to quit the footlights and abandon the role of footlight favorite. Then the quarrel.

Another explanation quoted along Broadway is that the bride discovered that another woman claimed to be Mrs. Gresheimer.

But this second explanation seems flimsy because Lillian Lorraine was quoted, the day after her marriage, as saying that her husband was either a divorced man or a widower, but she didn't know which.

So far as worrying about Mr. Gresheimer's previous matrimonial experiences the bride felt like Eva Tanguay, as expressed in her famous song, "I Don't Care."

So the statement that Mr. Gresheimer objects to his bride pursuing stage life strikes many as the more reasonable explanation of the disagreement so soon after marriage.

Extremely Pretty Woman.

Lillian Lorraine says her maiden name is Kaufelieu de Jacques. She is what the novelist might describe as "an alluring young person." She has a velvety complexion, big, melting brown eyes, soft, brown hair and a figure of unusual grace, slender yet well rounded.

She was in Boston a few weeks ago in "Over the River," the musical comedy serving as a starring vehicle for Eddie Foy. Her principal hit was the "Ring-ling-a-ling on the Telephone" song in the carabet scene in the first act. The melody is an ordinary little tune, requiring no great vocal powers. Lillian Lorraine sang it with an easy, saucy, self-assured air that went well with her physical charms. Her costume was daring in the extent of its decolette. The song and singer were warmly applauded.

Admits Her Marriage.

"Over the River" went to New York for its Broadway run at the Globe Theatre. On March 20 Lillian Lorraine admitted, in answer to questions put to her in her dressing room at the Globe, that she was married the day before in Jersey City to Frederick Gresheimer of New York and Chicago.

Here is the way the pretty actress told the marriage story:

"This is the first time I have been married, so I do not know much about such things. I have known my husband for a year. We met at Atlantic City.

"We have been engaged for several weeks. Mr. Gresheimer is out front now, at least he was when the play began. Maybe he is at the Brooklyn bridge now. I do not know if he is wealthy. I have not delved into his private affairs. We are happy, that is all."

Hazy Account of Marriage.

Asked regarding the marriage details the bride said:

"It was this way. We lunched together yesterday and decided to get married at once. We took a taxicab and went to Jersey City. I don't know exactly what the place is called, but it is a big building which has a dome and we had to sign a paper. I, of course, used my maiden name of Kaufelieu de Jacques. I do not know if they saved my husband if he had ever been married before. He has been divorced or is a widower, I don't know which.

"Then we went before a man named Lennon. I don't know what his title is. Well, we were married. We are now living in the Navada."

The actress was just adding that she would continue on the stage when the stage manager demanded that she cut the interview and got keep the stage waiting.

Reporters from New York newspapers went to Jersey City, but found no record of marriage licenses being issued to Kaufelieu de Jacques and Frederick Gresheimer. They found, however, that a "Miss Lorraine" and a man applied for a license in Hoboken, but were denied on account of lack of witnesses.

Wherever the marriage did take place it has not resulted happily, judging from the disagreement now arising between the couple.

"MOST HENPECKED MAN IN COUNTRY" SEEKS DIVORCE

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 4.—The most henpecked man in America, by his own claim, has come to light in the person of Harry A. Radcliffe, a local meat dealer, who is suing for divorce. Radcliff, on the witness stand, could not enumerate the attempts made on his life by his wife with revolvers, knives, pocties and other weapons.

He said he was compelled to sleep for weeks in the stable with the horses, and on one occasion, when he was out of the city, his wife sold the contents of his meat shop as junk. On another occasion, he said, she cut up his clothes and burned a buggy and three sets of harnesses. He exhibited a scar on his face which he said his wife had inflicted with a bottle while he slept.

MAY YOHE SORRY SHE LEFT HOPE

NEW YORK, April 4.—"Wish I'd never given up Lord Francis Hope to pick a lemon," said May Yohe as she sat in the auction room at No. 1382 Broadway, where her personal effects were being bid off by many of her former associates in the theatrical profession, including David Belasco and William Collier. The sale netted $2,750.

"One of the best men that ever lived," she declared. "Lord Francis never raised his hand to me. Wish I'd never given up Hope. Impales, I guess."

"Most people think the bonds of matrimony are its only bonds for a woman. They never paid me a dividend, but I didn't stick to the rules, so I've got no protest. When most women marry they pawn their liberty and then lose the ticket. I'd have been all right if I hadn't given up Lord Francis. I was a fool and now I've got to pay for it."

May Yohe had these effects, previous gifts from Lord Francis and others, stored for a number of years. Now out they've come to be sold because May says she is going to travel round the world in a vaudeville skit satirizing English society. She needs the money anyway.

Danderine

Grows hair and we can prove it

Hair Becomes Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Beautiful Immediately After a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair—No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Try as you will after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it, if you will just try a little Danderine. Real surprise awaits you.

Business Will Come if You Are Honest

Work, or Your Help Will Be Sought.

I Always Could Find a Job on Farm.

Henry L. Jost, who began life as a waif in the old Five Points Mission, New York, has just been elected Mayor of Kansas City. He is one of the many foundlings for whom homes have been found by the Children's Aid Society and who have subsequently "made good." He sends a message to boys:

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 4.—I say West there are greater opportunities for boys than are offered by the city or other environments of the East. The country is the place to rear boys. There is an expansiveness to the West, and it is hard that a boy is able for boys to develop into strong, broad-minded men.

I have never regretted having to start for myself on a farm, and I never had any trouble getting a job on a farm. Work and your services will be in demand and you will advance rapidly. Any boy who wants to work. The West does not care for lazy boys. But it is a good and offers chances for those who deserve.

I always could get work on a farm, and the last time I was without grit or knowledge and had no home and no money. This is not an exceptional case, many other boys who have come West under similar circumstances have made good. Perhaps they would have been successful anyway, but their home environment when they came West. People ... would ... to ... if ... to work, and are ... here.

Thin, Impure Blood in the Springtime

As winter passes away it leaves many people feeling weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks that vital force and energy which pure blood alone can give.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all-year-round blood-builder and nerve tonic, but they are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood. Returning strength commences with their use and the vigor and cheerfulness of good health quickly follow.

There is just one cure for lack of blood and that is more blood. Food is the material from which blood is made but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills double the blood-making value of the food we eat. They give strength, tone up the stomach, aid weak digestion, clear the complexion of pimples, eruptions and boils, and drive out rheumatic poisons.

If you are pale and sallow, if you feel continually "tired out," breathless after slight exertion, if you have headaches and backaches, if you are irritable, nervous, shaky, if your joints ache, if your step is uncertain, if your appetite fails and food does not nourish nor sleep refresh you, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will help you.

To build up the blood is the special purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and that is why they are the best spring medicine. If you feel the need of a tonic this spring give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will rejoice in new health, new strength and new energy. Do not let the trying weather of Summer find you weak and ailing.

I became discouraged with my doctor's treatment, as he did not help me at all. Finally I decided that I would take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. I began to feel better by the time I had taken a few boxes and was soon able to eat heartily. I gained in strength until my health was restored."

Another in Worcester

Miss Mabelle Parker, of No. 40 North Ashland street, Worcester, Mass., says: "When I was seventeen years of age I was rapidly going into a decline and had such a hacking cough that I could not sleep nights. I grew very thin, lost color and strength. I had severe headaches and dizzy spells as often as two or three times a day. My mother had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with benefit and I decided to try them. Although I had been sick for five months the [illegible] I used a number of boxes and felt like a new person."

Special American Correspondent with the Red Sox

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 4.—After a week of practice on the baseball diamond here, the Red Sox break camp tomorrow and start on their journey to Cincinnati, by way of Memphis. Today practically brings to a close the Spring training season. To-morrow, if the freshening weather permits, the team will have practice on the regulation baseball diamond. Two games will be played with the locals and then Stahl might let the team have a rest out for the plate, expecting to reach home Monday night.

SICK DAUGHTER NOW WELL

Mrs. C. Cole Tells How Her Daughter Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what your medicine has done for my daughter.

"Before taking your medicine she was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, could not walk but a short distance at a time, and had severe pains in head and limbs. She came very near having nervous prostration. She had begun to cough a good deal and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help.

"I cannot find words to express my gratefulness for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for my daughter. She feels and looks like another girl since taking it, and I shall always feel that I owe you a great debt.

"You can use this letter for the benefit of others if you wish, as I shall always recommend your medicine for female troubles."—Mrs. C. COLE, Fitchville, Ohio.

Cooking Secrets of a Famous Chef

By Emile Bailly, of the Hotel St. Regis, New York

The proper method for cooking vegetables, and recipes for asparagus and lobster salad.

Copyright, 1912, by National News Association.

THIS country is so remarkably fertile that all kinds of vegetables can be made to grow twice as large as they do in other lands where a smaller crop is raised at the price of ceaseless toil and care.

A friend of mine, who owns a large garden, tells me that French beans brought over from France and planted in his garden have sprung up as if by magic and grew to twice their ordinary size. That was the first year.

Next year, when he planted them again, the beans were small ever, and the third crop was very poor and of small size.

Probably the ground has not been worked enough, as has every inch of my own land, and the first enormous crop exhausts the ground.

Then, too, there is such a desire for big fruit, big vegetables, of mammoth growth and beautiful to look upon, that the average person does not realize the fact that vegetables of smaller size are often better in quality and flavor.

Must Be Fresh

Vegetables must be absolutely fresh to be good, and any housekeeper, even of modest means, can

LOBSTER SALAD.

(This is easily prepared if M. Bailly's recipe in this article is followed.)

get fresh vegetables if she will take the trouble to do her own marketing and do it early.

In France the mistress of the house does not disdain going to market with her cook, who carries home the day's provisions in a hamper or net. Provisions are bought fresh daily, as the ice box is only found in the houses of the very rich. I believe this is one of the reasons why you find good cooking in the humblest French home. It is hard for even a bad cook to spoil strictly fresh vegetables, but it is equally difficult for a first-class chef to do anything with wilted greens and foodstuffs that have been kept on ice for a long time and have lost their delicate flavor.

Most people cook their vegetables too much; this takes away the delicate aroma and is disadvantageous, both from the point of view of appearance and taste.

Asparagus, for instance, should never be served boiling hot. It is to be eaten just a little warmer than tepid. Served at this degree, after being quickly cooked, it is delicious. It should never be kept in the boiling water after it is tender.

ASPARAGUS "EN BRANCHE."

Scrape and clean the asparagus, wash thoroughly, but this is very important, don't let them lie or soak in the water. Water toughens all vegetables. Dry the asparagus and tie them together, putting the heads together and cutting off the ends to make the bunches even. Have ready a pan of salted water, and when the water is boiling, put in your asparagus and cook from twenty-five to thirty minutes. One cannot tell exactly how long it will take, as this depends on the quality of the vegetable and the season of the year in which it is picked.

If a vegetable cooks quickly it is proof positive of freshness and good quality.

LOBSTER SALAD—(Four Covers).

Lobster salad is not a formidable dish to prepare. Boil two lobsters, each weighing not less than two pounds. Let them cool. Split them down the back, removing the black or dark vein, which must never be eaten. Take the meat out carefully and cut in round pieces of a uniform size. Take out the meat from all the small parts, claws, etc. Season with salt, pepper, oil and vinegar and let it macerate for several hours. Place in a salad bowl, arranging it in the shape of a dome, and cover with a stiff mayonnaise. For decoration use a hard boiled egg and boiled beet, etc., and edge the dish with heart of lettuce leaves, according to taste. In America it is customary to used chopped celery with lobster salad, but this is usually done for the sake of economy. Celery has a very strong flavor and takes away the delicate taste of the lobster, which is its chief attraction. Personally, I prefer to use lettuce to increase the quantity of the salad. The lettuce should be cut with a silver knife "ciseler," as they say in French, or carved. That is cut in several places. This is done in order that the flavor and seasoning may permeate more thoroughly.

A thing fear of lettuce without these cuts ... the dressing ... flavor away from the rest of the ... contents of the dish.

Even the Birds of the Air Refuse to Carry a Message for the Villain

Copyright, 1912, by the National News Association

By Hershfield

I.—IN THE RIVER.
Claude and Rosamond, aided by the men of the Chinese River patrol, are now fast catching up with Desmond, the scoundrel having taken to the river in an effort to escape. Claude, tender-hearted as usual, will not order a volley without giving Desmond a chance to surrender, and more than once such a delay has enabled the villain to escape his deserved punishment.

II.—THE SWOOPING GULL.
Smiling his villainous smile, Desmond takes a small piece of bread from his pocket and crumbles it upon the surface of the water. Claude, watching from the boat, cannot see any object in the act of Desmond, but that astute villain is for some reason or other desirous of attracting bird's wing. He hopes that the river pirates will see it and hurry to his aid against Claude and the patrol.

III.—HIS PLAN.
Desmond, as was anticipated, did have a plan which he expects will help him to baffle Claude. When the seagull comes close beside him to pick up the pieces of bread, Desmond pull outs a crayon and quickly writes a message of appeal on the

IV.—THE WINGED MESSENGER.
With the message clearly showing on its white feathers, the sea gull rises from the water and speedily wings its way past the boat on which Claude stands, gun in hand. As the Chinese do not allow sea-gull to be killed, our hero dare not fire at the bird which is speeding in the direction of Desmond's friends, and the villain sees his troubles at an end.

V.—THE FALLING FEATHERS.
Too hasty in his exultation, Desmond's joy is turned to grief as he notices the feathers dropping around the water. They come from the seagull hearing his message and already so many of the big gulls to be killed that the writing is completely lost. No good now if the bird should reach its destination—they could not know of his great danger.

VI.—CAPTURED.
It is a simple matter now for Claude and the Chinese to capture the villain, for no swimmer could get away from the junk. Desmond, knowing that he has no immediate chance of escape, surrenders in disgust, but ever surrendering never notice that he will have his own some day. Claude resolves to end the villain's career. What happens will be shown tomorrow.

Steel and Cans Climb in Price; Coppers Up Some

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, April 4.—Midday—Copper shares were firm as a rule when the Boston market opened. Old Colony sold a little higher at the start, while Mayflower was strongly held but unchanged. Trading was at fair volume before noon Granby was up ⅛ and Butte Superior a point higher, while Utah Consolidated had declined ¼ and Shattuck Arizona was the same fraction lower.

Steel common was one of the strong features of the New York market. During the morning it went up 1¼, while Copper shares were firm as a rule when Union Pacific gained 1⅝, American Tobacco 2⅞ and Reading ⅝.

Can issues went materially higher. It was a pretty strong market.

Steel Common Sells Higher.

Canadian Pacific opened 2¾ higher in the New York market, where there was a renewal of activity and a stronger tone at the start, and the rise was attributed largely to buying of this stock in London. Within a few minutes there were profit taking sales which wiped out part of the gain.

Many of the issues were in brisk demand and Steel common was a leader among them, opening ⅛ up and increasing the advance to ⅝ within fifteen minutes. Wabash preferred rose 1⅜ to 22, and this was followed by an advance of Wabash issues to 62½.

After opening ⅛ lower Amalgamated advanced to 82⅝, a gain of ⅝ over last night's closing. Among other advances were: Smelting ⅛, Erie common ⅜, Pennsylvania ⅛, B. & O. ⅝, Atchison ⅛, Reading ⅛, Union Pacific ⅝, Southern Pacific ⅛, Seaboard Air Line issues, which were dealt in for the first time, were fairly active.

Copper shares and Marconis were strong, for in the London market, where spot metal closed at £70, up 5s., and futures at £70 17s. 6d., also 5s. higher. The sales of spot were 200 and of futures 800 tons. The metal market there has closed until Tuesday next because of Easter holidays. American and Canadian Pacific received support above New York parity. Rio Tintos went up ½ to 73¼. The market tone was cheerful, but in the main it showed holiday characteristics.

Copper Prices and Transactions

Copper sold yesterday on European transactions at the 16 cent basis. It is understood that after the break in London of more than a pound in the price of the metal there was a shading of prices in this country from the 15⅞ cents quotation. Copper went up in London after the close of the market, but the partial recovery had little effect on this side of the Atlantic. As a matter of fact the absence of any big demand in the American market for the metal was more consequential than the selling price in the British capital.

There is a good deal of interest in the way Germany is consuming copper, and various explanations are given. One is that the Kaiser's realm is preparing for war and making an inordinate number of cartridges, and another theory is to the effect that there are Germans who have been accumulating the metal for speculative purposes. Probably the truest theory is Germany's buying of 32,074 tons in January and February last was because the supply was industrially needed there. German manufacturing is almost everywhere reported as being on a great rate, and the $2,074 tons taken in the first two months of 1912 the United States supplied 29,500 tons.

While Germany has been a heavy borrower of late, obtaining, it is estimated, $47,000,000 in this country, she has been manufacturing at a great rate and taking every possible competitive advantage of the coal strike in the British Isles to cut into England's trade. Competition in business warfare and that kind of a struggle is in strenuous progress between the two countries.

Regarding the prevailing price of copper and the firmness of the present rate, Adolph Lewisohn is quoted as saying in New York: "I do not look for any material rise in copper for a long time to come and am not astonished to see a further advance. I consider 16 cents a fair price for copper, while as much above that, there might be a reaction for us, which would be unfortunate."

The Miami Copper company was declared to be making money at 12 cents, and with the demand for the metal in the United States running at the present rate, copper at the present prices should be able to increase its assets at the rate of $1,000 a day at the same time accumulate a good surplus. The reports from the mines are encouraging.

New Haven Plan Is Blocked.

What is supposed to have been a deal between the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Rutland railroads has been blocked by the New York Public Service Commission when the former company asked the Central to acquire a majority of the stock of the New York, Ontario & Western. The New York Central said it wanted the Rutland line in order to have the Pennsylvania coal fields. Samuel Untermeyer, counsel for minority stockholders of the Rutland road, said there was a deal whereby the New York Central was to split New England territory and the New Haven was to get out of New York State. The New Haven road owns a majority of the New York, Ontario & Western stock, which the Central wants, and the Central controls the majority of Rutland stock, a road which the New Haven is buying.

On April 29 stockholders of the New England Railroad, New York, New Haven & Hartford subsidiary, are to vote on the proposition to lease the line in New York State to the New York Central. Under the terms of the lease the Central is to pay the New Haven $120,000 a year for the property, and to withdraw a petition for the privilege of acquiring control of the Rutland road if he acquiring be before the Public Service Commission. If the New York Central cannot perform its part in the "swap" it is probable that the New Haven move to get the Rutland road is carried through, though not permanently. It is also likely that the decision will relieve the financial stringency in relation to the north of the New York, Westchester & Boston railway, which is already approved by a New Haven directorate committee.

Protects Minority Interests.

When the Public Service Commission refused to permit the "swap" it did not take into consideration the interests of New England stockholders in the New York, but simply held up the transaction to protect minority stockholders in the New York road. In its decision the commission says:

"No transfer of any property interest from the New Haven to the Central should be permitted without reasonable safeguards for protection of possible oppression by the majority interest. Such safeguards should be such as will not only protect the minority stockholders of the organization that the Central shall take over such of the common stock as may be issued under the same terms per share as it pays the New Haven for its own holdings, and that it offer themselves of this privilege it would make a purchase of substantially $1,500,000. The Central's interest in the Rutland road is substantially $1,500,000. The Central's interest in the Rutland road is substantially $1,500,000. The Central's interest in the Rutland road is

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, APRIL 4, 1912

Largest Circulation in New England, DAILY and SUNDAY.

No Credence Is to Be Given to Report That Governor Foss Has Allied Himself With the New Haven Interests

The AMERICAN gives no credence to the reports which are flying about the State House and State street that Governor Foss is preparing to follow the fatal example of ex-Governor Draper by recommending some of the most undesirable schemes of the New Haven Railroad to the Legislature, as Draper recommended the Holding Company and the making of the Holding Company's bonds a savings bank investment, and even by lobbying, as the unfortunate Draper lobbied before him, to put through certain New Haven Railroad legislation.

The reports that the Governor has thus formed an offensive and defensive alliance with the New Haven Railroad are not confirmed from any creditable source and they do not seem consistent with the record of Governor Foss' business and political career.

If there is one thing that is conspicuous in the conduct of Governor Foss, it is the fact that he does not worship at the shrine of those who have failed. Like all wise men he makes a difference between the want of complete success on the part of a man urging a cause ahead of his time and the failure of a man who promotes a bad cause or who starts without a handicap.

The dismal failures of the New Haven Railroad in this Commonwealth and of its gubernatorial puppet need not be repeated here. Draper is derelict and forgotten. The Boston Holding Company, heralded by a blare of trumpets as "The Great Medicine" which would give New England all the alleged benefits of a unified railroad system while it avoided the certain evils of railroad monopoly with the control vested in another and a rival commercial section, is now so low in all men's consideration that there are none so poor "as to do it reverence."

But if we were ready to believe that Governor Foss could possibly connect himself with such a history as this, there remains one further fact which absolutely prohibits all credence in the story.

This is the fact. There was a passage in the Governor's second inaugural address which might possibly have been construed as recommending the consolidation of the Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven & Hartford upon the pretext that this consolidation would give us more and better connections between the northern and the southern portions of our Metropolitan District through a tunnel and through better correlated transportation points.

This was so entirely against the Democratic party policy that the AMERICAN asked the Governor if he meant by that section of his inaugural to recommend a consolidation or one of those long leases which means consolidation of the Boston & Maine with the New Haven. He stated distinctly and emphatically that he did not and that he would not approve of it while he was Governor.

The present railroad situation is bad, but it is not irretrievable. While the New York, New Haven & Hartford depends for its monopoly upon the control by the Boston Holding Company of all the stock of the Boston & Maine, the New York, New Haven & Hartford is not in an impregnable position.

Its monopoly can be destroyed with very little confusion and at less expense under the present conditions than under any other.

To permit a consolidation or a long lease of the Boston & Maine by the New Haven is to "pass the Rubicon" which separates the rule of competition from the rule of monopoly. It is to cast the die; to scramble the egg.

New England is having her experience with a railroad monopoly controlled in New York. Our business men see every day some new evidence that all roads are now leading to New York; that New England is being provincialized; that service has deteriorated and that promises are never kept.

Under these circumstances it would be strange if the Governor should join with those who seek to put an undesirable monopoly beyond the reach of public attack.

All the exaggerated benefits which could come from unifying more closely the Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad can be obtained without any such high price. The Legislature has ample power to compel the two roads to co-operate in transferring their freight, just as if they were one road. And the Commonwealth, through the Directors of the Port of Boston, can build the tunnel connecting the North and South Stations.

There are no advantages in consolidation which may not be obtained in other ways, leaving the Commonwealth in her present powerful potential position to deal with the New Haven monopoly when her patience has at last been completely exhausted.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

EMPTY FREIGHT CARS AT HIGH SPEED AND BROKEN RAILS.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have always maintained that to read the last page of the BOSTON AMERICAN was a liberal education; to read the editorials was a course in up-to-date thinking, and this applies to the articles on the recent railroad wrecks.

Let us go back, say twenty-five years, and make a short analysis of the freight cars of the American railroads. Empty weight, ten tons; load capacity, fifteen tons; to be generous make the load twenty tons; the springs of these cars were designed to carry a 10 per cent. overload; therefore the ratio is as 10 to 20 plus 10 per cent. overload.

Today the empty car weighs from twenty to twenty-five tons; load from forty to seventy tons, with 10 per cent. overload as the factor of safety; springs are designed to carry at least ninety tons. Now the ratio is twenty to seventy.

Resume—If the springs are designed to carry, say ninety tons, and are then at their sensitive point, i. e., just doing the load, then when the car is empty and the springs carrying only twenty tons there are practically no springs under the car, only a dead axle, and we all know what riding in a springless wagon means even on a good road. It is this twenty tons of empty cars at high speed that is the rail breaker.

Wise Men Should "Train" Girls to Be Sisters as Well as Wives and Mothers

While Seeking to Perfect Women, Why Not Include Those Who, by Being Kind to Brothers, Can Make Good Fathers and Husbands?

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

THE latest and most popular reform is that which seeks to make women more perfect.

In her present state of raw imperfection she does not merit the high honor of being a wife. Therefore the wise men (which means ALL of them) have decided that young girls should go into training to be wives.

Finding that such a suggestion met with the approval of all men, they added that this course of training should include motherhood. To make young girls fitted to be wives and mothers was the highest and noblest of all reforms and the one—said these wise men (which means ALL of them)—which is widest in its scope.

They forget one very important thing. Boys, who are wise men in embryo, but get no credit for it till the years begin to sprout the wisdom out of them, could name this omission.

They forgot that girls should also be sisters on the way.

Some are never wives. A number, that is steadily growing larger, are never mothers.

Heaven Intended Sister to Be Next to Mother

But almost all are sisters, and it is as sisters to brothers where the work should begin.

A sister, in the heaven-intended meaning of the word, is the creature, next to his mother, that a boy loves most, needs most, and who does most in shaping his character.

She should be his Little Mother, the one who, being nearer his years, has an understanding that even his mother lacks.

She should be his comrade and, with her gentleness and patience, smooth off his gruffness and roughness.

She should have an understanding and a charity that would bring him to her side with the story of every escapade. And no boy's escapades reach the criminal stage as long as he can make a confidant of the right kind of a sister.

Does she? Is she? Ask the boy! He may not be eloquent regarding the ties of kinship, but he is at least truthful.

Who treats him as if he were a pirate seeking to carry off and despoil all in the land, when all he seeks is an apple out of the refrigerator?

Should Bring Brother to Her Side with His Secrets

Who screams that there won't be any left for "company" when he dives into the cooky jar?

Who, by the way, makes of that word "company" a whip with which to lash him? What will the "company" think? Isn't he ashamed to act that way before "company"? There is nothing left in the house to eat if there should be any "company," etc., etc., till he wants to fight at the sight of a trunk on an express wagon in front of the door or a strange hat in the hall.

Who never looks at him except to note that his hands need washing, or there is mud on his shoes?

Who thinks he is too young to sit in the best room, and thinks quite old enough a neighbor boy of the same age?

Who regards him as a pest in the years he is growing, and then, when other escorts fail, demands that he be a convenience when he is grown?

If you ask, he may tell. Or, more likely, he may not. Boys, young and old, have an inborn sense of loyalty to their women folks.

Girls in choruses abuse their brothers; women in loud and united tones speak unfatteringly of the men.

But a boy whose sister isn't as sweet to him as she should be is ashamed to tell of it. Men do not hire halls in which to meet and roast their wives.

So, Wise Men (which includes all of the sex), why not widen this wonderful reform?

This raw material, so full of imperfection, will not meet every world's need so long as the sister chaise is omitted.

Her Kindness Makes Good Fathers and Husbands

In being a good sister, a good brother results, and it is of good brothers that good husbands and good fathers are made.

It is, therefore, not enough that girls be trained to be wives and mothers; they need to be trained to be sisters on the way.

Marching Orders

By MINNA IRVING

THE woodpecker begins to beat
Assembly on his drum,
The bluebird struts upon parade,
The robin, too, has come;
And though the emerald flags are furled
As yet on oak and larch,
The army of the Spring awaits
The signal, "Forward, March."

Where still the Winter's bleaching bones
Along the fences shine
The grass unsheathes a thousand blades,
Prepared to fall in line.
And high above us, in the blue
Of morning's breezy arch,
The trumpets of the wild geese sound
The order, "Forward, March."

The Extension and Widening of St. James Avenue is VITAL to Boston's Business Interests

Boston people many years ago accepted with cheerful equanimity the merry quip of visitors to the effect that her streets were like a lot of cow paths. In those old days Bostonians loved their city, and their streets served. Bostonians today love their city and—their STREETS DO NOT SERVE.

Boston air is vibrant with commercial development. Keen men of business realize that a new era of prosperity is dawning. But it is one of those peculiar knocks by Fortune at the city's door, and if the city is NOT IN, no one can tell when there will be ANOTHER KNOCK.

No proposed improvement in Boston appeals more strongly to the business sense of the city than the proposed extension and widening of St. James avenue, between Copley square and Park square.

Many reasons could be advanced for the making of this needed business thoroughfare. The dominating fact is that Boston wants BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT and it is a foregone conclusion that she cannot secure it unless there are adequate street facilities for it.

This city, probably more than any other in the United States, realizes what it means to suffer from narrow, crooked and insufficient streets. Something must be done along these lines. It is vital to Boston.

The extension and widening of St. James avenue, as proposed, is a common sense proposition. It is a concrete suggestion as to how progress may be made in this direction.

A wide business street is needed between Copley square and Park square to parallel and relieve Boylston street. It would serve to open up a large section of land that has of late years been practically of no use to anybody—the large Park square tract owned by the New Haven Railroad Company.

It looks like the veriest nonsense to see a vast tract of land like this lying idle in Boston's business district when there is so much congestion for lack of room.

Besides all this it has been pointed out that the great improvement could be made at comparatively small cost at this time—a net outlay of about $100,000.

When the vast advantages that would result from the making of such a street as is proposed are considered the COST should be of secondary consideration.

Mayor Fitzgerald and all of the big business organizations of Boston are in favor of the improvement. In order to bring it about it will be necessary for the city to obtain from the Legislature permission to borrow outside of the debt limit $1,250,000.

While this sum would represent the gross outlay there would be credits because of damages assumed by the New Haven Railroad and from the selling of certain parts of the land taken, that would reduce the net expenditure to $100,000.

A bill providing for the borrowing of this money should be presented to this Legislature. There is assurance that the Committee on Rules would admit it. And it should be PASSED.

Residents of Boston who have the welfare of the city at heart should urge THIS AND ALL OTHER SIMILAR IMPROVEMENTS.

EXTEND AND WIDEN ST. JAMES AVENUE. WIDEN AVERY STREET. BRING THE GRAND TRUNK RAILROAD TO BOSTON. BOOST YOUR CITY!

A Great Task Undertaken by a Woman's Club

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

NELLIE B. VAN SLINGERLAND has organized a very interesting club with the following objects:

Anti-dust and germ extermination methods, inventions.
Anti-insanity, prevention, restoration and better laws.
Anti-contagious diseases methods.
Anti-court case delays, laws enforced.
Anti-smoke methods, inventions.
Anti-death penalty.
Anti-marriage laws, for defectives.

Marriages of the healthy to be encouraged by laws and otherwise.

Educating the young to avoid pitfalls.

Educating the young and mature to solve the sex problem.

Board of health laws, to uphold and enforce.

Pure morals, pure blood.
Pure food, pure drugs.
Heredity.
Inebriates, defectives, criminals, prevention, restoration, etc.
Longevity taught.
Co-operation, arbitration, encouraged.

Work Colossal, but Well Fitted for Women to Do

The work undertaken by the good women of this club is colossal, but it is work eminently fitted for women to do.

Too many centuries have gone by in which women believed their work consisted in marrying "and no questions asked" regarding the moral nature and physical fitness of the men they married to become husbands and fathers, and in bearing children and leaving the education of these children entirely to schools.

Not one mother in one thousand ever considered it her duty to talk to her boys and girls regarding the emotional phases of life, or to prepare them for an understanding of the world before they were thrown into the maelstrom.

Ignorance was misnamed innocence, and sorrow, sin, invalidism and lifelong tragedies have resulted from these mistaken methods of the old-fashioned mother.

There is just as great a difference between the old-fashioned type of mother and the mother who has now come upon the scene, with her mothers' clubs, as there is between the old-fashioned broom and the vacuum cleaner.

One raised a terrible dust with much hard labor, and filled the lung cells of everybody in the home with dying germs.

The other takes the dust away without allowing it a chance to do anything or anybody harm.

And with one-tenth the labor.

Old-Fashioned Mothers Gloried in Large Families

The old-fashioned mother prided herself upon her skill in making with her own hands the most appetizing and indigestible condiments and creating a family of dyspeptics with her loving labor.

The moment one of the children was ailing she proceeded to stuff it with more food, and she believed a good hearty appetite a sign of health.

The modern mother studies the chemical value of food, and knows that no one ever took cold save from an overloaded or wrongly loaded stomach. And she proceeds to teach her children to avoid overeating always.

The old-fashioned mother gloried in a "big family."

If one was halt, another blind, another deaf, another afflicted with spinal trouble, she called it the "will of God."

The modern mother knows that just as the field, however fertile, must have its seasons of rest in order to produce good grain, and the orchard trees cannot bear good fruit every consecutive year, so no woman can bear a child every year or every alternate year during her whole maternal period of life and give the world desirable citizens.

Therefore quality, not quantity, is now the mother's pride in presenting children to the world.

The old-fashioned mother believed all disease the "will of God."

The modern mother knows it to be the result of BREAKING GOD'S LAWS. And she buries herself in studying ways and means to educate men and women to understand the laws of health and to live accordingly.

Results of New Methods Will Show in a Few Generations

It will require several generations before the best results will be observable from the efforts of these "New Women."

BUT THESE EFFORTS WILL BRING RESULTS.

Great, glorious and wonderful results.

Let every man and woman who has time and heart to give to it take an interest in this new league.
